Pastor's Meditation

His Eye is on the Sparrow - and "Kookish"

In April, 2002, I delivered a candidacy sermon for my first-ever pastorate. It was a good day, overall. Worship went well. The congregation voted unanimously to call me as pastor. Everyone seemed so nice. At the end of the day, we walked out the back door of the church to the parking lot. Once in our car, I asked my family, "Well, everybody, what do you think about moving here?" Annette said it went well. Our son, then 7 years old, said he had fun there. Then, when it was 5 year-old daughter's turn, she became quiet.

"Honey," I insisted, "What did you think?" Again, more silence.

"It's okay, go ahead and say whatever you want to."

She burst into tears, and exclaimed, "I DON'T EVER WANT TO GO THAT CHURCH!"

I was troubled. Had somebody mistreated her in some way? I let her cry for a minute, then asked, "What happened?"

She hesitated, then finally admitted, "I'm scared for Kookish."

Kookish! Kookish (pronounced "Kook-EESH" was a celebrity in our family. She is a tiny stuffed bunny, just small enough to fit in the palm of a 5-year old girl. The previous year, Kookish had been lost, until I just happened to see her lying in the wet gutter next to our parked Buick. Our daughter must have dropped her when getting out of the car. I took Kookish indoors, cleaned her thoroughly, and our daughter and Kookish had become inseparable since.

"What are you afraid might happen to Kookish?" I asked.

Still sobbing, she said, "I'm afraid she'll fall into the waterfall."

It didn't take long to figure out what she was talking about. Taking the back way out of church en route to the parking lot, we had stepped over a large grating. The grating covered an underground creek, over which part of the church had been built. The grating had large holes, big enough for a toy bunny to fall through. Once through the grating, Kookish would have dropped several feet, into a rapid current, probably never to be recovered. Turns out Vanessa had every reason to be afraid, especially since we had a history of dropping Kookish.

I thought for a moment and finally said, “You know, if I’m the pastor here, I’ll get a set of keys, probably to more than one door to the church. Maybe we can bring Kookish into church another way.” We got out of the car, and I took her to the main entrance, where most people entered the church. There was no such grating there, no “waterfall.” She could drop Kookish at any point and never lose her. She became visibly relieved. “It’s okay now,” she said. As we drove back to Pittsburgh, she played with her little stuffed companion, happy again, as if nothing had ever troubled her. She wisely avoided that grating from then on.

A wise person once said, “90 per cent of everything I ever worried about never happened.” And, sure enough, nineteen years later, we still have Kookish. I never had to wash her again. The girl outgrew their friendship, and left Kookish behind when it was time for college. I’m now the one who is attached to Kookish, keeping her in a safe place. I’m worried now, praying about my kids’ futures, worried about their relationships with God. Deep down, I know it will never again be as simple as it was when the kids were small.

Jesus has advice for all us “prayer worriers”: “Are not two sparrows sold for a penny? Yet not one of them will fall to the ground outside your Father’s care. And even the very hairs of your head are all numbered. So don’t be afraid; you are worth more than many sparrows.” Matthew 10:29-31(NIV).

From the perspective of time, a little girl’s fears that day seem comparatively small. Our worries may loom large right now. Imagine how small our concerns will seem from the perspective of eternity. One day, we will look back on our seemingly troubled lives and recount all the ways God, with His watchful eye, had spared us. As the song goes, “His eye is on the sparrow, and I know He watches me.”
In Christ,
Pastor Steve

Thank You!

Thank you so much for your kind notes, cards, dinners and ice cream!!!

I mostly thank you for your prayers which have served me well as I am recuperating right on schedule.

Your Kindnesses are greatly appreciated.

Note from the Trustees

Our "New Education Building" isn't so new anymore. Completed in the mid 1960's, we have to be aware of upkeep and repairs to its infrastructure. Over the years we have replaced the windows and roof, added insulation to the third floor ceiling, added an elevator, changed to a tank- less hot water heater, and, most recently, replaced many of the hallway fire doors. Late this February we had water from melting ice enter the building through windows in the hallway that connects the Education Building and Old Fellowship Hall. As the weather improves, this will be addressed. Also, in late February, a toilet in the bathroom opposite the church office developed a leak. Bill Werther just happened to be at church and learned that to repair a toilet all of the water to the entire Education Building needed to be turned off. Meho was then called and did all needed repairs.

We are in the age of technology at church. During the past year we have been holding services on Zoom and in person. Zoom will not go away; it is a great way to reach our members who cannot attend in person as well as others who are looking for a church. Realizing that the quality of our presentation is important, we are beginning to research ways to upgrade our technology and improve the quality of our production.

As you can see, the trustees need to continually be aware of the health of our building.

Respectfully,

Bruce Blackman, Don Fox, Fritz May,
Jack O'Brien, Sarah Phillips, David Trump

Pledges and Donations

Just a reminder that all pledges and donations can be mailed into the church office and will be deposited, or you can also use the Donate button on the church website (for a small fee).

Thank you!

Missions Report

The Missions Team has been meeting regularly by zoom. At the time of this writing, we are still looking forward to our FOOD FOR KIDS drive-through food collection on March 20. We are also sharing with you weekly throughout March about the American Baptist Church's America For Christ campaign for contributions to support their missions work.

Our team has authorized $1,000 from the Missions budget of our church to be sent to ABC United Missions for their outreach, and $1,000 to be sent to the ABC Rochester Genesee Region to further support their work to connect, encourage and empower local congregations. In timing with the Easter season, we are hopeful that these decisions will be impactful in reaching both local and national needs.

Happy Easter to all—
Sue, Ellen, Janette
